

iShares U.S. Real Estate ETF Strategy Analysis

Why choose an iShares U.S. Real Estate ETF strategy?

Allocating money to an iShares U.S. Real Estate ETF indexed strategy provides the opportunity for clients to diversify their portfolios with exposure to upside in the real estate sector without downside risk.

Returns using rolling periods

Using one-year rolling returns from June 20, 2001 through December 31, 2018, you can see how an iShares U.S. Real Estate point-to-point strategy with an 8.00% cap would have performed compared to an S&P 500® point-to-point strategy with a 6.15% cap. The following analysis includes more than 4,400 observations.

Maximum and average rolling returns are reflective of the data that was available to us when this flier was created. Returns for last seven years assume that, for the entire seven-year period, clients held a Great American Life® fixed-indexed annuity, allocated 100% of their funds to applicable strategy for each one year term and terms coincided with calendar years. Indexed interest rates for the strategy are based on changes in the index over one-year terms, which are not based on calendar years but begin on the 6th and 20th of a month. The information presented above reflects hypothetical caps, which are not guaranteed rates. The actual caps that we might have applied during this period would have been different and might have been significantly lower. A purchase payment greater than $100,000 may be required to receive illustrated rates.

The launch date of the iShares U.S. Real Estate ETF was June 12, 2000. Past performance does not guarantee future results. Historical index returns are not indicative of the interest that would have been credited to a fixed-indexed annuity during the same time period.
